Benefits of Voice Mail

Voice Mail allows you to receive, edit and forward voice messages to one or more voice mailboxes in your company. With voice mail, employees have their own private mailboxes that are user customizable. Voice mail allows you to pre-record several messages to greet callers and give them helpful information on whether you are in the office, out of the office or busy. Upon receipt of voice messages, you are notified by a message waiting indicator on the digital telephone. While retrieving messages, users may save, delete, save as new or forward them. Messages carry helpful information such the caller number, the date and time stamp of the message and whether it was forwarded from another mailbox. Upon receipt of a message, voice mail may notify the mailbox owner by dialing a pager or mobile telephone number.

- No more “telephone tag”. Voice mail improves communications by allowing people to communicate in non-real-time.
- Shorter calls. When you leave messages on voice mail, your calls are invariably shorter and get right to the point.
- It improves business conducted across several time zones
- It reduces labor costs: instead of answering phones and taking messages, employees are free to do more vital tasks.
- Less paging and shorter holding times.
- 24-hour availability.

Getting Started – First time setup

When you call voice mail for the first time, you are asked to personalize your mailbox for proper operation:

- Dial the voice number from your telephone

Record Your Name

- Start recording after the tone. When finished Press #.
- Press 1 to Rerecord, Press 2 to Replay or Press 3 to Accept.

Record Your Default Greeting

- Start recording after the tone. When finished Press #.
- Press 1 to Rerecord, Press 2 to Replay or Press 3 to Accept.

Change Your Password

- Enter your password (Password is always 4 digits in length).
- Confirm your password.

After entering your name, default greeting and password, the first time setup is complete and the mailbox is activated.

Setup Tips

- Keep your greetings current. Callers are more likely to leave you a message if your greeting is accurate and gives clear directions to callers.
- Record your Out-of-Office greeting. The system automatically plays the Out-of-Office greeting when you press the DND key on your telephone.
- Ask callers to leave relevant information in the message so that your return call can be more productive.
- Your greeting should include alternate extensions to dial. For example, your greeting may tell callers to press 0 for an assistant, press 2,3,4 to call other extension or your mobile number.

Example of default greeting:

Hello, This Joe Blake. I'm sorry I cannot take your call right now. I you would like to leave me message, press 1, to reach me on my mobile number, press 2, if this is service related, press 3, or Press 0 for my assistant.

Example of Out-of-Office greeting:

*Hello, This Joe Blake. I will be out of the office till Friday the 22nd with limited access to voice mail. If you would like to leave me message, Press 1. If this is an urgent matter, Press 0 for my assistant or Press * to speak to someone else.*

Accessing Your Mailbox

To access your mailbox from your telephone:

- Dial the voice mail extension number or press the preprogrammed voice mail key on your telephone.
- When prompted, enter your password.

To access your mailbox from another telephone:

- Dial the voice mail extension number or press the preprogrammed voice mail key on your telephone.
- When prompted enter your password, Press #.
- Enter your user ID (typically your extension number).
- Enter your password.

To access your mailbox from outside the system:

- Dial the telephone number of your company's back door number (or the main number, if answered by an auto attendant).
- Press #.
- Enter your user ID (typically your extension number).
- Enter your password.
